

NO ANTI-LIQUOR NOR LIQUOR LAWS

Will Be Enacted by the Legislature This Winter.

THAT IS WHAT POLITICIANS SAY

Friends of Governor Do Not Want Him Embarrassed by Going On Record Either Way—Say Rose Law Will Not Be Repealed and Reasons Given.

Columbus, O.—(Special).—Politicians from all over the state are dropping into Columbus these days. Democrats preponderate, for it has been so long since they controlled both the executive and legislative departments of the state that they want to come to the Capital City to convince themselves it is really true, talk it over and probably lay wires to connect with some fat appointment. Republicans are here, too, to see how it happened and to find out if there is any balm for the many bruised spots on the G. O. P. elephant.

Within a few weeks the new Democratic legislature will meet and what that body will probably do and not do in the way of legislation is a popular topic for discussion. Among Democrats the feeling is quite general, and is growing, that the general assembly this winter will adopt a stand-pat policy so far as any temperance or anti-temperance legislation is concerned. While the liquor interests are claiming a liberal victory and are predicting the repeal or amending of the county option law Democrats, as a rule, even those who are liberal in their views, express themselves as being opposed to such a program. They argue that to put any kind of liquor legislation up to the governor would be embarrassing to Mr. Harmon in view of his candidacy for the presidency and, besides, they declare the county option law was not an issue in the recent campaign and should not be trotted out to trouble the party during the coming legislative session, as there will be enough of troublesome matters which will have to be met. These party men say Mr. Harmon is not under any obligations to the brewers and liquor dealers and that they should not be permitted to complicate matters at the beginning of so important an administration, especially as the governor is known to have plans concerning reforms which he failed to secure at the last session.

Furthermore, these Democrats assert, and Republicans agree with them, that as the three-year limit will be up in fifty or more counties next fall and as many of them will again vote under the Rose law, it will be better to let the people determine for themselves whether or not they want county option. They will have had three years' experience without saloons and can speak for themselves on the question of having them again open their doors. Then, too, the voters having decided on a constitutional convention, the query is why not postpone any legislative action on the temperance question and put the whole matter up to the constitutional convention?

It is known that a number of liberal Democrats who will sit in the legislature not only want to save Governor Harmon any embarrassment which will result from dragging the temperance question into the legislature, but are themselves loath to go on record either way. They do not want to vote for the repeal or amending of the county option law, neither do they want to vote for or against any advanced temperance legislation. They hope to have political futures and do not see any necessity for running the risk of jeopardizing these futures by antagonizing their wet or dry constituents.

Sentiment has been crystallizing very fast the past few days against passing any liquor or anti-liquor legislation and the Democratic leaders are becoming so convinced this policy should prevail that it is confidently predicted by the knowing ones that neither the Anti-Saloon league nor the brewers and liquor dealers will receive any consideration or favors at the hands of the general assembly which will convene the 24 day of January.

Influence of Sane Teachers. A university is not, as some insist, "a collection of books." Books are of all dates and values, and hence indiscriminate, omnivorous reading is no furnisher of sound ideas. Guidance by the specialist is needful. President Garfield's ideal of a college, "Mark Hopkins on the other end of a log," recognizes the educational value of contact with a master mind. The greatest teachers, Hopkins, Agassiz, McCosh, Jewett, Thomas Hill Green—are just those who, by throwing a student on his own resources, bring to ripeness his individuality.—E. A. Ross.

BIG TURKEY AT WHITE HOUSE
Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—Thanksgiving Day in the national capital will be observed in a manner becoming the purpose of the day. At the White House the president, fresh from his trip to Panama, will join his family in their second Thanksgiving dinner in the historic executive mansion. The dinner will be served in the evening and will be purely a family affair. The piece de resistance will be a thirty-pound turkey sent from Rhode Island.

Mayonnaise.
Cardinal Richelieu is credited with having invented mayonnaise.

The Bedroom Lamp.
When using a kerosene lamp in a bedroom place it in front of the mirror, but not near enough for it to heat the glass. There will be about twice as much light, the mirror acting like a reflector.

A Moon Record.
There was no full moon in the whole of February, 1866. According to astronomers this will not occur again until the year 2499662.

Tinted Paper.
The origin of blue tinted paper came about by a mere slip of the hand. The wife of William East, an English papermaker, accidentally let blue pack fall into one of the vats of pulp.

Soap.
Investigators say that soap has more or less value as a disinfectant.

Club Notes

Beethoven Club
The Beethoven Club met Tuesday night with Miss Porter. Miss Edith Bell was in charge of the program on "Gypsy Music."

A paper on "Gypsy Music" was read by Miss Bell and illustrated with the following selections:
"Songs My Mother Taught Me."
Dvorak—Miss Bell.
"The Skies Have Cleared," "O Happiness is Fleeting," Gertrude Norman Smith—Mrs. Welsh.
"La Gitana"—Miss Bell; (guitar accompaniment)—Mrs. Critchfield.

SOROSIS
A most enjoyable meeting of Sorosis was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Clyde Church, corner Hamtramck and Sugar streets. At roll call the ladies responded with answers to the question, "What Would I Do Along the Line of Civic Improvement in the City?" It is needless to say Mt. Vernon would be an exceptionally clean city if the members of Sorosis had their say.

"Early Thanksgiving Customs" was the subject of a very interesting paper by Mrs. Gordon.

A select reading, "Lincoln's Speech," was given by Mrs. Clyde Church.

After the reading of the minutes the members enjoyed a guessing contest entitled, "The Chanticleer," and the prize was awarded Mrs. Clyde Weaver. During the social hour which followed, Mrs. Church charmingly entertained with a three-course supper. The dining room was most artistically decorated in red and green.

The visitors were Mrs. Grace Anderson of Fredericktown, Mrs. W. E. Shrontz of Martinsburg, Mrs. Lurie, Mrs. Charles Church, Mrs. P. B. Church, Mrs. Charles C. Dowds, Mrs. O. Poppleton of this city.

Mayer-Weber Nuptials
With low mass the wedding of Mr. Joseph Mayer and Miss Margaret Cecilia Weber occurred at St. Vincent de Paul's Catholic church Wednesday morning at 7:30 o'clock. The bride's maid was Miss Agnes McDonough and the best man Mr. Fred J. Lawler. The bride wore a handsome dark gray suit with a black hat and the bride's maid was attired in a dark blue suit with a black hat. The ushers were Mr. Harry Weber and Mr. Edgar Weber, brothers of the bride. The wedding march was played by Miss Elizabeth Lee. Following the wedding ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Mayer entertained with a sumptuous wedding breakfast at their new home in the O'Rourke flats, West High street. After December 15 the young couple will be at home in the above named flats. They have the best wishes of a host of Mt. Vernon friends.

Pleasant Surprise For Lodge Members
On Monday evening, November 21 while the members of Kokosing Co. 71, U. R. K. of P. were holding their regular meeting, their wives appeared upon the scene dressed in ghost attire and masked, and as they came forth from their enclosed meeting to the main hall, one at a time they were seized by one of these nightly ghosts until they were all captured. The grand march was led around the armory by Col. Hunt and through the banquet hall, which was decorated with the colors of the order and lighted by red, yellow and blue candles. Back to the dance hall, then came the time of their lives to pick out their wives. Of course it was no trouble for Col. Hunt and Capt. Miles, but the rest of the poor fellows, my what a time they had. After they had shown the prize they captured they danced until 11 o'clock after which all seated themselves in the banquet hall where a fine supper was served. Several toasts were made by members of the company and it was made a motion that the company entertain its members and families once each month during the winter. After thanking the committee for their work and complete surprise, they departed for home glad they had come.

SHOW POLICE STRENUOUS TIME

Cripple in Invalid Chair Refuses to Move and Brakes Wheels With Hands, Forcing Constables to Remove Her From Battlefield by Force — Routed From Parliament House, Women Attack Homes of Cabinet Members.

London, Nov. 23.—Suffragettes, incensed over Premier Asquith's "concession" in the house of commons of a grant of time for the discussion next year of the suffragist bill, again marched against the parliament building. Hundreds of women engaged the police in a clash in which at least a dozen were injured, though none seriously.

The police had been tipped off to the demonstration, and heavy reinforcements were on hand. At the height of the demonstration Asquith's taxicab appeared on the scene. The women immediately surrounded it and, before being driven back by the police, they succeeded in breaking the windows of the vehicle.

It is estimated that about 500 persons, including 300 women, took part in the melee. There were 93 arrests. Among these were Mrs. Emeline Pankhurst and other prominent suffragette leaders, including a woman who spent Sunday night and all of Monday on the roof of a music hall in order to interrupt the speech there of Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd George.

A suffragette also succeeded in molesting Augustine Birrell, chief secretary for Ireland, while he was talking in St. James park, near Downing street. He escaped in an automobile which had been placed at his disposal by a spectator.

Desert Their Fallen Heroes.
The police had little difficulty in dispersing the last force of suffragettes. The women, finding it impossible to advance, retreated, leaving some half dozen prisoners in the hands of the enemy.

One of the most conspicuous persons in the demonstration was a crippled woman in a wheel chair. Wherever the fighting was thickest she was in the midst of it. The police, who feared for her safety, ordered the woman away, but she persisted in remaining.

Finally a constable took charge of the wheelchair, with the idea of personally conducting the woman off the battlefield. He was felled by the cripple holding the wheels and using her hands like a brake. Several constables thereupon lifted up both the cripple and the chair and carried them to the police station.

After the mob of women was dispersed, parties of suffragettes visited the private residences of the ministers on a window-smashing expedition. Eight windows in the house of Secretary Grey, three in the residence of Winston Churchill and several in the house of Commissioner of Works Harcourt were broken. Altogether about 150 of the disturbers were arrested.
